

Graduate Certificate in Music Theory Pedagogy Research and Practice

“Based on Evidence, Committed to Pedagogical Excellence”

The Graduate Certificate in Music Theory Pedagogy Research and Practice in the Hayes School of Music equips secondary and collegiate teachers to teach within the AP classroom or the undergraduate music core. Required courses include music analysis, research, and pedagogy studies, coupled with teaching practicums and mentoring opportunities with master teachers from the theory faculty.

“Theory pedagogy is moving to include more diverse and contemporary direction, and I hope to bring that to my students. The theory faculty at the Hayes School of Music encourage this from me in addition to being supportive and passionate educators.”

Mary Elisabeth Hirsch
M.M. in Vocal Performance

“I want my teaching of music theory to be relevant, engaging, and seen as a way for heightened musical experience in whatever setting a musician may find themselves.”

Cody Arington
M.M. in Conducting

For More Information Visit:
musicgraduate.appstate.edu/programs/22

Or Contact:
Dr. Jennifer Snodgrass, Program Coordinator
snodgrassjs@appstate.edu

*The Hayes School of Music offers graduate degrees in music performance and music therapy.
The Hayes School of Music is an institutional member of the National Association of Schools of Music.*

music.appstate.edu

On-line and Hybrid Options

Hayes School of Music

APPALACHIAN STATE UNIVERSITY

