CINCINNATI 1991

The fourteenth annual conference of the Society for Music Theory will be held in Cincinnati, Ohio, October 31-November 3, hosted by the University of Cincinnati's College-Conservatory of Music (CCM). Our first solo conference since the Rochester meeting, SMT Cincinnati promises to be an occasion for lively exchange among an intimate number of colleagues in a comfortable setting, with ample opportunities to participate in special sessions, concerts, and other activities during the evening hours.

Program: This year's program committee (Jonathan Kramer [chair], David Butler, Marianne Kielian-Gilbert, Gregory Proctor, John Rahn, Robert Zierolf, and Gary Wittlich) has provided a stimulating and varied program, both in content and format, occupying full days and nights. The keynote address, "Some Problems and Resources of Music Theory," will be delivered by David Lewin. Concurrent paper sessions addressing a wide variety of subjects run morning and afternoon, and are coupled with a variety of respondents. An SMT poster session is scheduled throughout the day Friday and Saturday, with presenters formally available for discussion and interaction during the lunch hours. Special evening sessions include "A C. P. E. Bach Symposium," "Expanding the Canon: Feminism and Pluralism in Music Theory," and "The Tonal Theoretical Work of Peter Westergaard." In addition, publisher's displays will be on hand throughout the duration of the conference.

About Cincinnati: First founded in 1788, and located in the southwest corner of Ohio, Cincinnati is known for the beauty of its hilly location on the Ohio river, the official boundary between North and South. Said to be "the most beautiful inland city in America" by Winston Churchill, it was named after the Society of Cincinnati, an organization of Revolutionary War Officers, and is nicknamed the "Queen City" by its natives (prompted by Longfellow). Cincinnati and its Northern Kentucky neighbors of Covington and Newport are enriched by the history and diversity of the various river-town cultures which are their heritage. Be sure to ask about flying pigs when you arrive. Early November weather in Cincinnati is unpredictable, ranging from the mid-40's to the upper 60's. Rain is likely. Please check the national weather picture before packing!

Hotel Information: The conference is headquartered at the Omni Netherland Plaza, a completely renovated French Art Deco hotel on the National Register of Historic Places. Conveniently located at 5th and Race Streets in the heart of downtown Cincinnati, the Omni adjoins the city's tallest building, the Carew Tower Complex, which is currently being renovated to provide shopping space and eating establishments (many of which should be open by the time of the conference). A skywalk system connects downtown hotels and the nearby Convention Center.

Registration rates for the conference are $89.00 single, $99.00 double. Each additional person is $20.00. Guests at the Omni also have access to a full-service health club and swimming pool for a fee of $3.00. (Quoted rates do not include applicable taxes of 10%, which will be added.) Please make your reservations directly with the hotel before September 30; an advance reservation envelope is included with the Newsletter. You will receive direct confirmation from the Omni. In case of complications, the Omni's local telephone is (513) 421-9100. Unfortunately, no hotels within walking distance of the Omni offer substantial savings for students; however, the Graduate Music Forum, a student organization at the College-Conservatory of Music, will arrange "crash pads" for students who are otherwise unable to afford accommodations for the conference. For information, call Robert Zierolf at (513) 556-6046.

Travel by Plane: The Greater Cincinnati-Northern Kentucky Airport (CVG) serves as a hub for Delta Air Lines, which accounts for nearly 85% of the air traffic in the area. We are pleased to announce that Delta has agreed to serve as the official conference airline; for all SMT participants, Delta offers a 5% discount off super-saver fare, and a 40% discount off coach fare (35% off for travel originating in Canada). Call 1(800) 221-1212, and refer to the File Reference number D41023, or have your travel agent call when making arrangements. For every 40 flights booked, Delta Air Lines will also make a contribution to SMT.

Jetport Express offers bus transportation to all downtown hotels, leaving every half hour from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m. One way fare is $8.00—a special $10.00 round trip convention fare is available. (Normal round trip fare is $12.00: please ask for the SMT convention rate.) For those preferring taxi transportation, up to four persons can hire a cab for no extra charge. Approximate fare from the airport to the hotel is $20.00 for the twenty-minute ride.

Travel by Car: Cincinnati is easily accessible from interstate highways 75 and 71 (map enclosed), and you will find Cincinnati drivers, for the most part, polite on the road. To get to the Omni from Northbound I-75/71, remain in the right lane while crossing the bridge, following signs to I-71 downtown. Take the Vine Street exit immediately as you cross the bridge, turn left on 6th, and double back on Race. If travelling Southbound on I-75, merge to the left lanes around Exit 2, then take the far left 5th Street exit to Race. From Southbound I-71, take the 3rd St/Elm Street exit, follow Elm to 5th, and turn right.

Valet parking is available for overnight guests at the Omni, with unlimited in-out privileges. The rate is currently $12.50. Parking is also available in various nearby municipal parking lots: Tower Place (4th and Race) @8.00/24 hours; Allright Parking (6th and Elm) @5.00/24 hours; and Fountain Square (5th and Vine) @8.00/24 hours. For complete parking information, see the city map enclosed. Rates are subject to change.

Registration: Pre-registration will simplify your first day at the conference, will facilitate the preparation of an accurate list of registrants, and will assist in arranging concert and excursion transportation. Send $40.00 on or before September 30 to: SMT Registration; Division of Composition, Theory, Music History and Literature; The University of Cincinnati College-Conservatory of Music; Cincinnati OH 45221-0003. Student/Emeritus registration is $20.00. After September 30, and at the conference, the registration fee will be $50.00 ($25.00 for Student/Emeritus). Throughout the conference, a registration and information desk will be located in the fourth floor lobby at the Omni. For those arriving Wednesday afternoon, an early registration desk will be located in the hotel lobby.

Concerts and Tours: CCM is presenting performances every evening during the conference. Admission is complimentary, and transportation to and from the hotel will be provided by our host institution (bring your conference badge). Concerts include The Percussion Group, performing works by Saya and others, (Thursday), a piano/vocal concert of Australian music with Kenneth Griffiths (Friday), and the CCM Philharmonia Orchestra performing Strauss' Also sprach Zarathustra and Lazaroff’s Second 'Cello Concerto, with Jeffrey Salow, 'cello Soloist. A dramatic production of Bergman’s Nora is offered nightly. Please indicate your interest in advance so that transportation can be scheduled. A sign-up sheet will also be provided at the registration desk for those who prefer to be more spontaneous.

An evening riverboat sightseeing cruise is planned for Friday evening, scheduled between afternoon and evening sessions. Beginning at twilight, the Mark Twain journeys upstream past city highlights, and returns to the nighttime view of city lights. Inside and outside seating is available, as well as a cash drink/snack bar. Cost is $15.00 for the hour-and-a-half cruise, and includes transportation to and from the Covington Landing. Transportation leaves the Omni at 5:20 p.m., with return arrival around 7:45 p.m.

Independent Attractions: There are many opportunities to explore on your own in Cincinnati. Without even leaving the hotel, Grant benefits, which vary by country, generally include round-trip travel for the grantee and one dependent, a stipend, tuition allowance for school-age children, and book and baggage allowances. Applicants must be U.S. citizens, hold a Ph.D. or comparable professional qualifications, have university or college teaching experience, and for selected assignments have proficiency in a foreign language. Application deadlines are June 15 for Australasia, India, the Soviet Union, and Latin America; August 1 for Africa, Asia, Western Europe, Eastern Europe, the Middle East, and lecturing awards to Mexico, Venezuela, and the Caribbean; August 1 for travel-only awards to France, Italy, and Germany; and November 1 for institutional proposals for the Scholar-in-Residence Program. Application materials are available from the Council for International Exchange of Scholars, 3400 International Drive, Suite M-500, Washington, D.C. 20008-3097.

The John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation announces its fellowships to assist research and artistic creation. The fellowships are awarded to those who have already demonstrated exceptional capacity for productive scholarship or creative ability in the arts, based upon nominations made by a Committee of Selection. Faculty receiving sabbatical leave on salary and holders of appointments at research centers are eligible, but Guggenheim Fellowships may not be held concurrently with other fellowships. Completed applications must be submitted by the candidates themselves no later than October 1, 1991. Requests for application forms should be addressed to: John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation, 90 Park Avenue, New York, NY 10016.

The National Endowment for the Humanities sponsors many programs that support the work of scholars. Most require the Ph.D. and many favor younger scholars. The list that follows includes programs most likely to interest music theorists. Deadlines generally remain the same from year to year. For a complete list of programs or for application information, direct inquiries to: The National Endowment for the Humanities, 1100 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20506; 202/786-0458.

Fellowships for University Teachers and Fellowships for College Teachers and Independent Scholars provide support for members of the faculty of Ph.D-granting universities, the faculties of two-year, four-year, and five-year colleges and universities that do not grant the Ph.D., and independent scholars and writers, to undertake full-time independent study and research in the humanities. Deadline: June 1.

Interpretive Research Projects grants support major collaborative projects that will have a significant effect on scholarship in the humanities and which, because of their intellectual scope and consequent size or complexity cannot be accomplished through individual one-year fellowships. Support can be for periods of from one to three years, and are expected to result in significant scholarly publications. Deadline: October 15.

Reference Materials grants provide support for projects that will aid scholarly research by organizing essential resources and preparing reference materials that improve scholars' access to information and collections. Deadline: September 1.

Study Grants for College and University Teachers provide support for faculty -- especially those with heavy teaching responsibilities -- to increase knowledge of their own disciplines and related disciplines, and to pursue intellectual projects that will inform their teaching. Grants are made for intensive study rather than for research intended primarily for publication. Deadline: August 15 for grant periods of six consecutive weeks between May 1, 1992 and August 1, 1993.

The Summer Seminars for College Teachers provide research opportunities for teachers in two-year, four-year, and five-year colleges and universities and for others who are qualified to do the work and make a contribution to the seminar. Although the applicant need not have an advanced degree in order to qualify, neither candidates for degrees nor persons seeking support for work leading toward a degree are eligible. Deadline: March 1.

Summer Stipends provide support for faculty members in universities and two-year and four-year colleges, and for other persons working in the humanities to enable them to devote two consecutive months of full-time study and research to their projects. Deadline: October 1.

Text grants provide support for the preparation of editions and translations, as well as publication subventions for the publication and dissemination of the best scholarly books in all fields of the humanities. Deadlines: for editions or translations (application by individuals or institutions), June 1; for publication subventions (application by publishing firm), April 1.

Travel to Collections grants of $750 enable individual scholars to travel to research collections throughout the United States and the world to consult research materials. Deadlines: January 15 for travel between June 1 and the following May 31; July 15 for travel between December 1 and the following November 30.

The Younger Scholars Program provides support for undergraduate students to carry out projects of research and writing in the humanities during the summer. Recipients work under the close supervision of a humanities scholar. Deadline: November 1.

The National Humanities Center offers fellowships for advanced study in the liberal arts. Applicants must have a doctorate or equivalent professional qualifications, and need not be United States citizens. Fellowships are required to work at the Center, where they have private studies and administrative support. Fellowships are for the academic year, and include a stipend and round-trip travel expenses for Fellows and their immediate families. Fellowship stipends in most instances cannot replace full salaries; applicants are urged to seek partial funding from other sources. The application deadline for the 1992-93 academic year is October 15, 1991. For more information, write to: Fellowship Program, National Humanities Center, P.O. Box 12256, Research Triangle Park, NC 27709-2256.

The Newberry Library supports a variety of fellowship programs in the humanities for research to be undertaken at the Newberry Library in Chicago in any field appropriate to the library's collections. The Newberry's collection in the history and theory of music is particularly strong. Fellowships of interest to music theorists include the National Endowment for the Humanities Fellowships, the Monticello College Foundation Fellowship for Women, and Short-Term Resident Fellowships for Individual Research. Deadlines vary by fellowship program: October 15, January 15, March 1. For more information, write the Committee on Awards, The Newberry Library, 60 West Walton Street, Chicago, IL 60610.

His lecture, "Beyond Unity: Toward an Understanding of Post-Modernism in Music and Music Theory," generated lively discussion, and the discourse continued in the panel discussion on the march from Stravinsky's L'Histoire du Soldat, a lecture and discussion on Kramer's compositional style, and performance of one of his works. The conference had more than 50 participants, representing schools from five southeastern states.

A committee consisting of Richard Nelson (Mercer), Jane Clendinning, and Jim Mathes (both of FSU) is currently discussing the organization of a new regional society to encompass the states of Florida, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Virginia, and West Virginia. A Steering Committee will meet at Mercer in the fall of 1991 for discussion of an inaugural conference to be held in 1992. Correspondence regarding membership and future activities of the Society may be directed to The Florida State University Music Theory Society, c/o Ron Goldstein, School of Music, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2098.
